OUR MISSION

The mission of the District of Columbia's Statewide Independent Living Council is to use its collective advocacy power and legal mandate to develop and secure public policies that ensure civil rights and expand options for all people with disabilities and to promote a philosophy of Independent living.

Our goals are to promote needed systems changes to improve independent services and programs for the civil rights, self-empowerment and full integration for people with disabilities into mainstream society.

The DCSILC is dedicated to a program of positive change through advocacy for people with disabilities in the following areas:

- Systems advocacy and its outcomes
- Health care
- Housing
- Transportation
- Education
- Employment
- Leisure and Recreation
- Diversity

WHO WE ARE

The District of Columbia's Statewide Independent Living Council (DCSILC) is one of the 55 Independent Living Councils organized across the U.S. in each of the 50 states plus American Samoa, Guam, Puerto Rico and the U.S. Virgin Islands. It is the policy of the Council to represent all District of Columbia residents with disabilities.

The Council is comprised of members who:

- Provide District of Columbia-wide representation in independent living services and programs
- Represent cross-disabilities
- Are knowledgeable about independent living services
- Are persons who have disabilities
